LAW SCHOOL NEWS

College of Law: The University of Oklahoma College of Law proudly welcomed the Fall 2004 entering class. From more than 1300 applicants for the Class of 2007, the law school only accepted 24% of all applicants. The entering class comprises 172 students, 52% of whom are men and 48% of whom are women. The median LSAT is 156, and the median GPA is 3.6. Minority students comprise 28% of the total class, with the highest average GPA for minority students in the law school's history. In addition, 57% of the entering class received merit-based scholarships.

Congratulations to all graduating students of the College of Law who passed the July 2004 Bar Exam. The College of Law is proud to have a 95% first-time passage rate for its graduates. This record reflects the quality of education that the College of Law provides to its students and showcases the talent of lawyers who graduate from the law school each year.

Last spring, the Oklahoma State Senate honored Ada Lois Sipuel Fisher by dedicating a painting in her honor that will adorn a wall in the State Capitol. In 1949, Ms. Fisher entered the College of Law and became the first African-American and the first woman to be admitted to law school in the south. The painting shows Ms. Fisher standing alongside future U.S. Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall and Amos T. Hall, who defended her appeal before the nation's highest court in 1948. A group of current students from the College of Law attended the ceremony.

Noted Oklahoma artist Poteet Victory and the College of Law announced the donation of a large oil on canvas painting installed in the Kerr Student Lounge at the law school. The painting, entitled Spirits of the Coterie, is a special donation to the College of Law in honor of John E. Shipp, class of 1966. Mr. Shipp died in a plane crash several years ago.

On November 12, 2004, Oklahoma City hosted the Eugene Kuntz Conference on Natural Resources Law & Policy. This annual one-day conference is designed for mineral law attorneys who are interested in recent legal developments in the oil and gas industry. At this conference, expert speakers from the United States present innovative topics, such as damages to property rights and gas market pricing. The College of Law co-sponsored this event with the Oklahoma Bar Association.
